Note: Counts based on prisoners with a sentence of more than 1 year.

Key:

/ = Not reported.

:- = Not calculated.

(a) Excludes transfers, escapes, and those absent without leave (AWOL), and includes other conditional release violators, returns from appeal or bond, and other admissions.

(b) Excludes transfers, escapes, and those AWOL, and includes deaths, releases to appeal or bond, and other releases.

(c) U.S. and state totals by type of admission exclude counts for Alaska.

(d) Includes all conditional release violators returned to prison for either violations of conditions of release or for new crimes.

(e) U.S. and state totals by type of release exclude counts for California because the state was unable to report detailed information on releases.

(f) Includes expropriations of sentence, commutations, and other unconditional releases.

(g) Includes releases to probation, supervised mandatory releases, and other unspecified conditional releases.

(h) The Sentencing Reform Act of 1984 eliminated the federal parole system but allowed courts to impose a term of supervised release after imprisonment as part of an inmate's sentence. Some persons with unconditional releases from the Bureau of Prisons may be released to community supervision.

(i) Prisons and jails form one integrated system. Data include total jail and prison populations.

(j) Alaska did not submit 2014 National Prisoner Statistics (NPS) admission or release data. Release-type data for 2014 were obtained from data submitted by Alaska to the National Corrections Reporting Program.

(k) Counts for 2014 admissions and releases are not comparable to earlier years due to a change in reporting methodology.

(l) Counts for 2014 admissions are not comparable to earlier years due to a change in reporting methodology.

(m) State did not submit admissions or release data in 2014 to NPS.

(n) State did not submit 2013 NPS data.
